5 - Great job!!!

4 - This recitation wasn't meant to teach. All we ever did was do example problems and take quizzes. No "teaching" occurred, because it couldn't. I have no clue about this woman's teaching ability. She certainly knew what she was talking about, I can say that.

4 - My TA does a good job of answering any questions that we might have.

3 - Pretty good so far

4 - The quizzes were too difficult and I feel like they did not reflect how well I knew the material based on my exam grades.

3 - Didn't really know how to explain concepts when students were confused.

3 - Was never prepared but she got through everything mostly. Her answers over email were ok.

3 - n/a

2 - She has a hard time engaging the class. I understand that maybe she gets a group of people that do not like to speak because of bad luck. However, it is still a fact that she kind of does not know a good way to deal with us.

2 - Overall It's good,

1 - From what I can conclude through the multiple recitations we've had thus far, Charlotte Aten doesn't possess the teaching abilities needed for such a challenging math course. We would often catch her making many errors that would change the outcome of the problem. She would also go on random tangents about how to do the same problem but in a "physics mindset" which didn't help me since I have not taken a physics course yet. She would often forget me and would never bring my graded quizzes with her. I had to email her to remind her to bring them to me next week. While I felt slightly comfortable asking her questions inside of the class, she was nowhere to be seen outside of class. I could never find her even though I went to her office on the 7th floor of Hylan. I even regularly checked the lounge on the 9th floor of Hylan because she would go there too, and I still couldn't find her. I might actually reconsider switching to a different TA in order to improve my grades. It's unfortunate that Charlotte Aten can't help me learn many of the topics covered in MTH 164.

5 - She is availability after recitation. I usually have question in class but I donâ€™t want to affect others study process, so i usually ask her after recitation, and sheâ€™s very glad to help me.

4 - Recitation is often unhelpful as TA tends to teach us methods of solving problems that are not the way we learned in class.

4 - She's nice and teaches well. Quizzes are a bit hard though.

3 - She often seems to know what she's talking about but cannot effectively communicate it with the class, but there have been times we have had to explain to her how to do a problem. She also tends to start a problem one way, get halfway through it, change her mind about how to do it, and then start doing the problem another way only to realize the way she was doing it before was better. It may benefit her to sit in on a class so that she can learn what methods we know and at what point in the year we learn them.

2 - Hard to learn from poor speaking ability (very monotone, hard to stay focused)

1 - I found the TA was clearly very very intellectual but her ability to pass on this intelligence was very poor. Struggled to answer numerous questions from classmates and struggled many times to see other perspectives. Often answered questions with math which was above our current level of math class and was overall a very awkward TA session that did not help me understand the content in anymore depth.
